NCSE - Teacher CPD Database for Inclusion and Special Educational Needs

This database is an online reference tool designed to provide practical support to teachers looking for continuous professional development opportunities in the area of inclusion and special educational needs. It brings together in one place an extensive range of information relating to CPD options, delivered by a variety of different providers.

To this end, the database does not seek to replace information from individual providers, but rather acts as an initial source of general information and a 'signposting' mechanism for further information.
